A 16 year old film director from Galston High School, Sasha Hadden, has won the Australian Teachers of Media prize for best drama. Hadden's entry was a 20 minute action adventure film called Robert.

Hadden said he was able to stay within his "super mega low budget" of $1000 by using the acting talents of fellow students.

He said his next project will be about emotions and friendship between kids. "After that I'll do a funny action film and then go to the film school." There's nothing like a clear vision for the future.
